San Alejandro

evodia

DESCRIPTION

Evodia means perfume. This is the perfect representation of the Grenache from Aragon with its own clones and flavours. The landscape where Evodia is grown is very special for its altitude and slopes, resulting in a very pure and fresh wine.

VINEYARD CHARACTERISTICS

Old vines, head pruned with an average yield of 4000 kg/ha, with different orientations and nature of soils: calcareous, clay and shale. Mountain vines at 900 m. of altitude.

WINEMAKING

80% destemmed and uncrushed and 20% full cluster grapes. Fermentation in concrete tanks during 20 days with soft extractions. Post-fermentative maceration during 15 days using the topping technique. This way, a more balanced extraction is obtained and a lower grapes' oxidation of the grapes happens. A small part of the blend ages in barrels. (20% in barrels and 80% in concrete tanks)

TASTING NOTES

Mineral-laced, elegant, finesse-styled effort displaying plenty of raspberry, sweet and sour cherry notes intermixed with a distinctive minerality.
